Excerpt: . The Psychological Researchers. Frederic W. H. Myers. t. t. t. Seeker after truth and helper of his comrades. The death of Frederic W. H. Myers, one of the most eminent and serious students of the present time, a monumental figure and pioneer in the most important work of the world --that of Psychological Research--is described by the eminent Italian physician who attended him at the time as a spectacle for the gods; it was most edifying to see how a genuine conviction of immortality can make a man indifferent to what to ordinary people is so horrible. In his last hours, in the intervals of painfully difficult breathing, he quoted from one of his own poems: --Ah, welcome then that hour which bids thee lie In anguish of thy last infirmity! Welcome the toss for ease, the gasp for air, The visage drawn,...
